RESPONSIBILITY OF THE PARENTS

Home Influences Corrupt the Morals of Many School Children.

STATEMENT OF EDUCATOR

DISCUSSION OF DELINQUENTS BY THE NATIONAL COUNCIL.

Denver, Colo., July 3 .- Asserting that American homes and society are responslole for the influences that make the teacher's life a burden and in the end result in the influences which corrupt the morals and pave the way for a criminal career in children, I. C. Mc-Neill, superintendent of schools of Memphis, Tenn., created a mild sensation before the National Council of Education. The meeting of the council is the only gathering preliminary to the sessions of the National Educational association which begin Monday evening.

The principal subject before the council during the day was the care of delinquents, tactfully referred to as "exceptional children." This subject, together with the report of the committee on moral training, culture element and economy of time in teaching, industrial teaching, co-operation with other countries, and educational progress took the time of the inner circle of the N. E. A.

Debate Begun.

The introductory statement in the discussion of delinquents was made by James H. VanSickle, superintendent of schools of Baltimore, Md., and he was followed by Mr. McNeill, who without hesitation gave what he believed to be

"exceptional child."

GETTING CLOSE TOGETHER

Alongside the Standard Office.

The Ogden Examiner is preparing to move from the Peery building on Twenty-fourth street, which the Journal occupled for many years, to a store room ad-joining the Standard office on Twenty-fourth street. This room was used unti recently as a meat market. It is under-stood that the Examiner will be printed on the Standard press, and the Standard stereotyping outfit will be used. It will also use all the local matter printed in the Standard and the Standard will "lift" all new local matter printed in the Ex-aminer, just as was done before the change. There will be nothing but a brick wall between the two papers, and there will be a hole in the wall.
